O! you mail-order houses.

—Within the past two days, Mrs. Clyde Wylie, who was seriously injured in one of her eyes during the display of fireworks on the evening of gala day, has sensed a very slight return of vision. Until this time there had been absolutely no sense of sight and as a last resort it was advised by her family physician that she seek the opinion of a specialist. But suddenly a day or two ago short flashes of light which at first frightened her, she later was able to interpret as a gradual return of sight and she distinguishes objects now with the in-—The present has been an unusual fall. The dry weather in September and the forepart of October gave the farmers a fine chance to put in their fall wheat, and the corn in shock cured perfectly. There was no violent storms to cause the apple crop to fall, and for the most part beautiful weather has prevailed. On uplands and high points the gardens in many cases remained untouched by frost, and tender garden truck found its way to market. A bountiful harvest has blessed the husbandman, and his labors are being well compensated by prevailing prices. Providence has dealt kindly with us as a Nation, both at seed time and harvest. There has been garnered large crops. The approach of winter has few terrors. Peace and plenty rules in Ohio.

ECONOMY THAT ECONOMIZES

Before you "economize" by buying cheap clothes, make sure that the maker didn't economize on QUALITY. There is no way yet discovered by which good clothes good style and good quality can be had for less than they're worth.

$15 to $25 properly placed, buys the very best values in clothes today. When you pay less, you lose more in WEAR than you SAVE in PRICE.

Our line represents OUR idea of helping our customers to the most for their money, and helping ourselves to their permanent patronage.
